

Title: Energy balance models and the cryosphere: recent studies and open questions

Abstract: This talk will give an overview of energy balance models, including some recent studies using nonsmooth systems, and introduce potential open questions involving either nonsmooth energy balance models or nonsmooth models of particular cryospheric processes.