

Title: More on Topological Models

Abstract: Continuing with the theme of my conference talk, I will be discussing topological models. In particular, how they are like forcing, of course with the added twist of not having classical logic. I will mostly be presenting examples; this time, though, instead of their being a theme and variations on similar principles, they will be a variety of different kinds of assertions that will be modeled.